City Council Disposes of Lengthy Agenda

A regular meeting of the City of Wetaskiwin Council was held Tuesday evening, with all members in attendance excepting Ald. French.

After the adoption of the minutes of last meeting, a letter was read from C. H. Russell, solicitor, re hospital matters.

Hon. O. L. McPherson, Minister of Public Works, wrote to the effect that the proposed new stationing for Wetaskiwin could not be erected under the unemployment relief, as the governments will not now give assistance for such work. Laid on the table.

Hon. O. L. McPherson also wrote stating that no change in the stationing suggested in connection with the Calgary-Edmonton highway was intended to Council at last meeting.

A. J. Taylor, C.P.R. agent, reported that steps had been taken to prevent a recurrence of the blocking of Pearce Street for traffic.

The matter of assisting the Barr family was considered and it was left with the Chief of Police and Chairman of Relief Committee to look after this family.

OTTAWA PREPARES FOR SESSION AS MEMBERS ARRIVE SLOWLY

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—Division bells were ringing in the house of commons Monday but only for the purpose of seeing that they are in tune for inevitable employment in the session which opens on Thursday.

A few members from afar are here and not yet, as yet, the government today will be considered a draft of the speech from the throne which will review some happenings since the last session and forecast main legislative projects. There will be reference to the economic conference.

The program at the start will not be extensive but it promises to acquire volume. In April there will likely be legislation respecting the railways, but while the subject will unquestionably arise, the effect from it will depend upon the report of the royal commission.

In the same but more distant category is the St. Lawrence question. The next step in regard to it will be a conference with the Quebec authorities similar to what has taken place with Ontario. One thing, long since evident, is that the United States is urging final action. Readiness to bear the cost of the international section has been indicated.

Conservative senators will foregather in caucus Thursday morning to choose a leader. It is understood that if the party is willing, R. H. Arthur Meighen is prepared to accept the succession to the seat of Sir George Foster and also become leader.

Sunday School and Y.P. Convention Held in Wetaskiwin

That Jack Frost holds no terrors for the young people of Alberta was evidenced last week-end, when twenty-four delegates from Edmonton, Red Deer and Camrose assembled in Wetaskiwin to hold a S. S. and Y.P. Convention in the Church of the Nazarene.

The Alberta District of the Church of the Nazarene is divided into three zones—southern, central and northern. Each zone is expected to hold a convention once a quarter in one of its churches. Conventions of this type are of great value as subjects of vital interest to church life, especially as pertains to S.S. and Y.P. work, are freely discussed.

Three papers were read at the S.S. Convention on Saturday afternoon, and a keen interest was shown in the discussion of each subject.

1. Do teachers in S.S. need special training?

A. More truly than in any other avenue of life, as the work is of so much more importance.

2. What is the purpose of the opening exercises in S.S. and how should they be conducted?

A. Purpose—To get attention and hold the interest that the message may be applied. How conducted—Lively, with variety, showing originality and child interest.

He had just stepped aboard the line when he was handed a telegram. It read: "Haven't keep you from your loving wife."

COMMUNITY WELFARE LEAGUE

Now that the festive season is well over and that most of us have had time to sit down and take stock of the balance sheet, formulate plans for the future, we should have time and the inclination to determine what we can do to help our fellow men. The result of the effort made through the hospital for Wetaskiwin, which this organization is very gratifying. Since the League has been contributing in cash, besides the wonderful response that was made to our request for worn clothing, etc.

In order to meet the demands made, it was necessary to spend the sum of $200.00, which leaves us at the present time $104.37 to carry on with. We distributed practically the whole of the gifts in kind, but our work is not finished, in fact a recent meeting of the Board, we were very large demand for all sorts of clothing, and feel sure that we will be able to meet this. But what of the future? The demands are coming in every day and it is hard to fill them all.

We will everybody personally and through the hospital for Wetaskiwin, we do our utmost to help the same people who so nobly worked over the end of the year are still on the job, and should you have anything of any kind to spare, please get in touch with one of them and let us have what we need.

300 Men Wanted for Very Important Work

300 members for the Wetaskiwin Board of Trade.

Will you be one of them?

Yes! Okay.

Please bring your $1.00 and a friend who wishes to become a member, to the Driford Hotel counter and we will issue your membership card. No doubt you will ask "What does the Board of Trade do with the $1.00?"

Well, dear member, $1.00 does not pay the expenses of any means, but it will help, along with other gifts, to continue the activities of this helpful organization. A few more points may give you a further insight of how busy your Board of Directors are.

1.—General. Your Secretary, Colonel Baker, and the Executive Board are at your service. We will answer inquiries by mail or help people coming to Wetaskiwin, to obtain reliable information.

2.—Publicity. Through various channels the Board obtains extensive and valuable publicity for Wetaskiwin and surrounding country. Articles are supplied to newspapers, magazines and trade journals proclaiming Wetaskiwin's fame and opportunities. The descriptive pamphlet published by the Board of Trade has made its way to the hands of the people in Victoria, Calgary, Winnipeg, etc., and requests for more supplies have come to our office.

3.—Industries. The Board co-operates with agricultural districts, cities and other bodies in supporting an active industrial and agricultural program to give special attention to Wetaskiwin's business and agricultural needs and opportunities.

4.—Transportation. The year 1932 promises to be an especially busy one in transportation questions too numerous to mention here, but your Board will get its share.

5.—Encouragement of Agriculture. In a previous article the Board activities have been outlined in this respect, and an active co-operation of our people is required to help those activities along, especially as boys and girls, the future generation, are to be benefited by them.

HOME STANDARDS AND SCHOOL CHEATING

(By Dr. H. B. Smith, University of Alberta)

An investigation was recently conducted by leading psychologists in the United States to discover the factors responsible for character formation in children. One of the factors whose effect on the habits of school children was studied, was that of home influence. For purposes of experimentation, one particular character trait was considered as representative of habits and standards in general. That trait was deceit. A thorough system of tests was devised to measure the tendency of pupils to cheat in their school work.

The pupils were given an arithmetic speed test under conditions which made cheating impossible. A second time they were given the same test with no opportunity to cheat. Then these two trials were called practice tests, and the same test was given again with the pupils encouraged to do their best. This third time, the pupils were allowed to mark their own papers, and they were given sufficient time that if they wished to add something to the work that they had already done they might do so, and thus gain additional marks dishonestly. By comparing the work done by the pupils on this third test with that done on the two former tests, it was possible to measure the amount that each pupil had cheated.

Home influence was more difficult to measure. However, a set of questions was devised by the examiners, and answered by the pupils, which did give a fair indication of the standard of living and the ideals of the home of each boy or girl. On the basis of the answers which the pupils gave to these questions about their home, each home was given a score representing its social and cultural level.

The next step was to observe whether any relationship existed between the standards of the home, and the tendency of the boy or girl to take advantage of the opportunity to cheat.

The results show a decided tendency for an increase in the amount of cheating as the cultural standard of the home decreases. In other words, the children from the homes where the standard of living is high seem less likely to cheat in their school work than the children from homes where the standard of living is low.

TRAPPER KILLS EDGAR MILLER AT RAT RIVER

Advancing to "get his man," Constable Edgar Miller of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and a resident of Edmonton, was shot and killed early on Saturday, by Albert Johnson, demented Rat River trapper at a lonely spot 30 miles up the river from its mouth, according to radio-telegraphic advices received on Sunday by Superintendent A. E. Acland, commanding "C" division, R.C.M.P. Miller is the second victim of the unerring aim of the Arctic trapper, the first being Constable Alfred Weldon King, who was shot down by Johnson at the door of the latter's cabin while making an inspection tour at noon on Dec. 31, and who is making a gallant fight for recovery under the ministrations of Dr. C. U. Urquhart at Aklavik.

FOOD—THE MODERN HOME REMEDY

(By Barbara B. Brooks)

Years ago children trudged to school with a bag of asafetida tied around their necks to ward off illness. That was only one of the many home remedies which mothers practised to keep the family healthy and in good humor. These traditional remedies included catnip tea, as a prevention against insomnia and nervousness, sulphur and molasses as a spring tonic, sassafras tea, onion syrups, turpentine and lard and the bacon rind for sore throat.

We have outlived most of these ideas today and instead, we try to build up our bodies with adequate nourishment, proper exercise and good habits of living so that we are strong enough to fight off germ invasion, ourselves.

Food is a contemporary factor in the field of medicine, and doctors have only recently begun to realize how great a part it plays in the condition of the patient. It has been proved many times that an intelligent balance of food is a safeguard to health. So the modern mother looks to her menus, instead of prescriptions.

What is an intelligent balance of food? Frequently speaking, if the day's meals include cereals, two or more vegetables besides potatoes (one fresh, if possible), fruit, plenty of milk (quart for children and pint for adults is ideal), and some form of protein (cheese, eggs, meat, nuts and fish), besides the usual bread, butter and dessert, they will likely be balanced. If this plan is followed, you need not worry about vitamins, minerals, or the many other food elements.

A very modern ailment and one which our ancestors did not have to guard against as much as we do, is constipation. We exercise very little and we eat far too many soft foods. Naturally if our bodies are burdened with the effects of faulty elimination, the resistance to infection is lowered, and we are very apt to catch something. Roughage, that food element which stimulates digestive processes and prevents constipation, should be included in the diet. We find roughage in whole grain cereals, bran, coarse fibered vegetables and fruits. Of the two meals below one is planned to include plenty of roughage and the other practically none. Note the difference.

Meal Without Roughage
Cream of Tomato Soup
Lamb Chops
Mashed Potatoes
Butter

Meal With Roughage
Cream of Tomato Soup
Lamb Chops
Mashed Potatoes
Butter

In the first meal, the cream soup has been made of strained tomatoes, minus their natural fiber and seeds. The potatoes have been whipped into a smooth fluffiness to delight the taste. The bread has been prepared from flour, stripped of its bran at the mill. And nothing could be creamier or softer than a custard. There is practically no roughage in the meal as it stands and often such menus are the underlying cause of many cases of constipation.

We can improve the meal by a few simple changes. String beans and lettuce have a healthful natural fiber of their own. By serving the specified muffins, we add bran, which is not only an excellent source of roughage, but it also contains the valuable minerals, copper and iron. Dried fruits can be relied upon to furnish roughage because of their seeds, skins and fibrous meats. In making these changes, we have not only improved the meal nutritionally, but we have made it more appetizing and interesting.

Basil Roper had a difficult time getting around on his regular route last Friday owing to the roads being badly drifted. A lot of snow shoveling was done, and a team once in a while was necessary to help the truck through.

The bridge party and pie social in the hall last Friday evening was a success, and a nice sum of money was realized.

A dance was held at C. Smith's last Saturday evening. A large crowd gathered to spend the evening, and a good time was enjoyed.

HARVEST HOME

(Intended for last week)

Mr. Cowan and son David, have taken up a homestead west of Edmonton. Mr. Cowan has left with two loads of implements. Clarence McGinnis went along driving one team. Mr. C. Pluin is the proud owner of a new windmill. He says the cows can have all they want to drink now, that is, if the wind blows.

Amos and Andy have shipped their first can of cream since they started in the dairy business. So we can all see why cream took such a drop. Probably you should quit, Andy.

Mr. Ray Cartwright has a new pet and he is taking the best of care of it, although he does not like it so very well, he says, but never goes away unless he wraps it up and takes it along. Anyone wishing to see it should call on Ray, because I'm not going to tell what it is.

What's the matter with the card parties this winter? Has everyone forgotten how to play? If so, call on Jesse K. and he will show you how.

WINFIELD WEST

Travelling west from Winfield, even a casual observer must realize the advantage and convenience in having the road pass under the railway. One can travel for miles through Alberta and yet not see another convenience of safety, such as ours. Dozens of persons are killed every year crossing railways. What a blessing it would be if all crossings were similar.

Business is picking up somewhat west of Winfield. Mr. Drader's mill is now in operation, also Mr. Burrows', and the old Bear Creek.

The Ladies' Auxiliary are busy practising for their concert. Ladies are taking part in this entertainment.

Miss A. Dolgren is visiting Mrs. T. Deval.

Mr. W. Brown has been very ill, but is slowly recovering.

Sandy Turnbull and E. Mackenzie are busy cutting logs for Art Burrows.

The weather has been cold for the past three days. We have very little snow, just sufficient for sleighing. There is lots of moisture in the soil, so we can get along very well without too much.

TOWNLAKE

George Kimmy, road boss, returned to his home at Battle Lake in the middle of the week. He has had a crew of men at work, building a bridge on the new Roadley to Winfield road, where it crosses the creek one half mile south of Winfield. Very little work will be necessary on this road to prepare it for the road grader.

Drader's mill was shut down for a few days on account of damage to pipes, frozen during the cold spell.

NOT TOO EAGER

The young woman carefully wrote out her telegram and handed it to the clerk across the counter.

"Seventy-five cents," said the clerk, giving the yellow slip a professional glance. "Gracious," the girl exclaimed. "Isn't that rather expensive?"

"Regular rate, Miss, for that distance," the clerk informed her. "Seventy-five cents for only one word?" asked the girl.

"Yes, ma'am. But, of course, you can send nine words more without it costing you any more," he pointed out.

"No," she finally decided. "I've said 'Yes' once. Ten of them would look like I was too anxious."

NOT SELFISH

"Charles schwab, known all over the world as the 'steel master,' tells a story of a neighbor who wanted to sell him a cow.

"I've got a cow I want to sell you, Charlie," the neighbor said. "Yes. Would she fit into my Guernsey herd?"

"No, I dunno as she would."

"Has she got anything to recommend her?"

"Well, I dunno as she has."

"Does she give lots of milk?"

"No, I can't say as she gives lots of milk, but Charlie, I can tell you this. She's a kind, gentle good-natured old cow and if she's got any milk, she'll give it to you."

The Love of Life

(Contributed by a Times Reader)

Billy Burns heaved a sigh of contentment. This was as far back as he could remember, was the happiest of his life. Ever since he had been "knee-high to a grasshopper," as he put it, life had not given him an even break. In his twenty-seven years he had more than his share of work, worry and ill-health. But now, standing atop a tiny knoll, Billy viewed his kingdom—as he thought of it to himself—and felt the fulfillment of his dreams.

Below him, beautiful to the eye, stretched a sea of towering spruce, cedar and pine; while to his right lay a miniature valley, a tiny paradise in itself. In the centre of this stood a tiny cabin, which to him was his sanctuary. Near the cabin a creek gushed on its way rippling and bubbling merrily; on whose banks early mountain flowers reared their gorgeous heads up towards the sky; and spreading out on the valley in a colorful carpet; scented the soft breeze with their rare perfume. Standing thus, gazing over it all, Billy Burns recalled the months he had spent here. Months which of late had filled him with a quiet happiness and contentment.

Slowly the picturesque scenery faded and in its place stood the city, so far removed from this scene of the wild. Billy recalled vividly that bright summer's day when he had stumbled from the doctor's office, the words of the kind old doctor ringing in his ears like a death knell. "You must give up your present position as banker as once, if you wish to live at all, for a man with T.B. as bad as you have it, does not stand much of a chance of living, if even for a few months. So, I suggest, on working in a dusty office as in your case." Again Billy remembered the feeble protest he had begun, "But, Doctor—" at which the kind old doctor had waved his protests quickly aside with "Tut, tut, my boy, you heard what I said. Surely you think enough of your life to take advantage of this one chance. Isn't the love of life strong enough in you to get out in the open and put up a not look upon it as he did, but would feel real sympathy for him and send him off with a friendly hand and a cheery "Good luck to you, old boy." For though these friends were city-bred and a little selfish by nature, they would understand in a case like this and their manhood came to the top.

Trusting to his sister Jean and his mother to keep his secret, Billy prepared for his journey with a heavy heart. To leave all this for what? But suddenly he realized he was not leaving so much after all. If it were not for his mother and sister, there would be nothing, even here Billy had sat back, his packing forgotten in the new pain that entered his heart when he remembered the bright face of Annette Kelley. What would she say? In his great excitement, she had almost escaped his thoughts. Not quite if he thought over at the back of his mind, and now the thoughts of her leaped back a thousandfold. It was then Billy realized he could not go to her and admit he was a failure, for she would think he came to beg for sympathy. So, as he had been told, he wrote a short note, and Annette Kelley's heart ached at what seemed to her a cool, heartless, little note, how could she know Billy Burns had written thus to refrain pouring out his love and longing to her which he ached to do with all his heart.

And so, after the long autumn and winter months, Billy was still here, and a new spring dawning in all its glory, was at hand. Drawing a deep breath of the pure air, a new realization dawned on him. He was well! How wonderful! Could it be true, but again he breathed deeply and felt only exultation. When he thought before the pain had been almost unbearable. It was then he realized he was a new man, and that was not all, for he felt like one. Moreover, his friends would have had to give a second glance at the bronzed six-foot manhood which he met when the Billy Burns who had, months before, stumbled from the doctor's office. For the figure standing so erect on that little knoll, gazing over his kingdom, bore little likeness to the Billy Burns of old.

In his thank God, Billy had found this kingdom, which he vowed would, at the first opportunity, be his own, as it had given him life and a healthy body, the greatest gifts of man. Feeling the need of action, he strode forth into the newly-budding woods, which he had grown to know and love, looking upon them as much-loved friends.

Now that spring was at hand, and the trapping season over, Billy devoted most of his time pottering about the banks of the creek, where he had seen the signs told to him by an old miner which meant the presence of gold. Knowing his friend could not have been aware of its existence, he felt it would be only fair if he found the gold, to inform Jim Clark of the treasure on his property.

Each evening, when he had not as yet gained good health and strength, he would return to the cabin, weary and footsore, and after a simple evening meal, would fling himself into his bunk to fall into deep slumber immediately. Now, however, after being hardened to the outdoor life, he would sit before his cozy fireplace enjoying an evening smoke. In moments like these, he would dream sweet dreams of Annette Kelley, and picture her here beside him. With the soft sighing of the pines outside the cabin, and from a distance the lonely wail of a great wolf—wail as lonely as himself, he reflected, while he sat before his fire, but if Annette were here it would ever sound wild and beautiful. And, as a thousand times before, he'd wonder, would Annette grow to love it as he himself? For the indeed, would be his idea of heaven.

But with these thought visions of Annette would reappear, surrounded by a group of her many admirers, who were forever at her elbow. Or, with golden curls making a halo about her head, he could picture her again skimming over a polished ballroom floor, in the arms of one of his friends.

He had only to close his eyes to see her in the green gown she had last worn, and when he told her she had reminded him of a fairy princess with her silver slippers, she had laughed flippantly and called him a "silly boy." How could he guess she had laughed to hide her real feelings, for with his cool manner towards her she believed he did not care. But each time Billy closed his eyes in the arms of someone else, his heart would beat faster, while a wave of jealous rage would almost overcome him. Oh! the torture of those days! Now, after months, all this was replaced by a dull ache, when he remembered with the the realization of having lost something precious that he could never regain. For in the long months of his absence he had not heard one word of Annette, for his sister's letters seemed to avoid any mention of Annette, and he knew it was to spare him pain, for she must be with someone else. If Annette had cared, he never knew, for he had carefully masked his feelings. What right had he to speak, when he had nothing to offer her? Nothing but a small salary and himself, and he had at that time been just the shell of a man.

But spring was here, and he had never felt better in his life. At least he had himself to offer to Annette now, together with the property that once had been owned by Jim Clark. He had asked to buy it some time ago, and Jim had willingly agreed to sell it, saying they'd work the tiny gold mine on shares. The mine was yielding very small pay at present,

CEREAL RELIEVED HIS CONSTIPATION

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brought New Health

Every one who has suffered from constipation should read Mr. P. M. Fisher's letter:

"For many years I suffered from constipation and used for relief, all kinds of laxatives. After a few days' treatment, I would only find my condition the same as before and at times worse.

"Some time ago I started to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly, once a day as directed. Since doing this, I have found that I do not need any other medicine to procure the desired result, and it keeps me in a very healthy condition."—Mr. P. M. Fisher. (Address on request.)

Constipation is caused by lack of two things in the diet: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN supplies both—and also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in lettuce, inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the wastes.

How much safer this is than risking pills and drugs—so often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonsful daily—in serious cases, with every meal. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved in this way, see your doctor.

Equally tasty as a cereal, or used in cooking. Get the red-and-green Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

but promised better things for the future, and Billy felt whatever hardships there were in store for him in the future, he was prepared to meet them.

But spring was on its way, and with its return, all of Billy's old love and longing for Annette returned in one great wave. Then too, he longed to see his loved mother and sister, and the home where he had spent so many years of his life. Not very happy years at best, but he wanted to see it in a different way than before. He felt re-born and perhaps with his newly regained health, things would appear differently to him.

Next morning, Billy was awakened by the call of the valley and was surprised to see the sun just peeping over the horizon to begin his long journey across the heavens. He had meant to arise at the first hint of dawn to begin preparations for his long journey home. For now that his mind was made up, Billy was eager to board the train, which would carry him back to his city home, and was impatient at any delay. He tried to picture the change during his absence and did not realize the great change others would see in him since the doctor's last visit.

Weary and dusty from his long hours of travel, Billy Burns, nevertheless strode with a firm step along the familiar streets to his home. Reaching the gate, he hesitated with a lump in his throat, as he saw his mother through the window. Softly tapping on the door, he did not wait for her to bid him enter, but bounded in and folded his dear ones in his arms.

Hours later, as they were still exclaiming over his wonderful recovery, he recalled for the first time how he loved his old home, and how he had missed it all. But even then he knew he loved his little cabin in the mountains, and felt he could not stay away from it for long, as it was there he had fought the greatest fight of all and had won. His sister Jean sat enraptured as he drew pictures for her of his little cabin, and the words tumbled out in a jumbleless meaning as she tried to thank him when he promised to take her with him when he returned. For he was a moderately rich man now, with his half share of the mine.

A week had gone by and Billy felt a restlessness growing on him which he could not explain. Not a glimpse had he caught of Annette to whom his thoughts had naturally turned many times each day. He had not as yet met any of the old crowd, and was half afraid he would not be able to take his old place among them.

This particular evening, sitting on the porch, he missed greatly the sounds of the wilderness, and in fancy heard again the wild howl of the wolf and the bark of the coyote, together with the wind in the pines and a bright moon which he had watched rise time and again in all its splendor and sail over the trees, flooding the world with a mellow light.

Thinking these thoughts, he felt a presence near him, and, raising his head, saw a figure in white coming swiftly up the path. A figure so familiar that his heart missed a beat. With a cry, he was on his feet, as with a rush all his old love and longing returned in one great wave. Not waiting to ask or answer questions, he tenderly drew Annette into his arms, covering the soft up-turned lips with burning kisses, looking down into the laughing eyes with his love and longing.

Then, with a happy laugh, she softly asked, "Is it alright, now, Billy Boy? You don't come to me, so I had to come, as there have been misunderstandings enough." "Yes," he answered, "But I never dreamed you'd care." "Care!" she replied, "I knew long ago I loved you, and just learned why you went away. Why didn't you tell me?"

Blushing and stammering, Billy told her his reason, which seemed quite foolish to him now.

Then, holding her as if he never wanted to let her go, he told her about his share of the mine, and asked her if she would be contented to live for a time in a humble cabin. And if he had had any doubts, they were quickly swept aside as she assured him life would indeed be worth living without him.

ANNUAL SHORT COURSE OUTSTANDING SUCCESS

The fourth annual Short Course for farm men and women which was brought to a conclusion at the University on Friday evening, will go down in the records as one of the most successful events of its kind ever held on the campus. For the first time in the history of the Short Courses, the four provincial livestock breeders' associations as represented by the Alberta Provincial Horse, Cattle, Sheep and Swine Breeders' Association, held their annual meetings and business session as part of the Short Course program and the success of the Short Course as a whole is attributable in no small measure to the fine co-operative spirit of these organizations. On the other hand the Short Course program and the presence of many Short Course visitors at their meetings greatly enhanced the interest and value of the discussions carried on by the livestock organizations.

In a year when it might be reasonably expected that attendance would show a decrease it was very gratifying to record a very substantial increase. Throughout the whole week a very fine spirit prevailed and the keenest interest was taken in all the lectures and discussions. The general comment heard all along being that the Short Course was too short.

1200 CARS OF ONIONS, PHOOIE!

"If you want to retain that school girl complexion, eat onions," carolled the Onion Growers of Canada at a recent conference in Windsor, Ontario. "Onions don't tear you down socially, they build you up physically," will be the theme song of the second annual "onion week" which will be held the last week of January. Ontario's premier producing districts of Essex and Kent raised 1,200 carloads of the succulent vegetable in the last growing season and, already, the movement of the onion crop is well under way across the Prairies in Canadian National refrigerator cars.

"DON'T HAVE TO" MERCHANT DOESN'T GET VERY FAR

The bird who says "I don't have to advertise for everyone knows who I am, where I am, and what I sell," will never make any more than a living. The average shopper does not care who a merchant is, where he is, or what he sells. But, he does care about information as to cost of what he wants without wasting steps. So, Advertise.—The Life of the Town, Bellevue Falls, Vt.

One of our friends from the country has turned in this story: A farmer on page five was on page six directed at once to the nearest undertaker. A TRIAL ORDER WILL CONVINCE

BEER BY GLASS SALE OPPOSED

A resolution calling the attention of the provincial government at its next session to the beer petition now before the government was passed at the afternoon session of the annual convention of the Alberta Prohibition association at the First Baptist church on Friday.

The petition asks for the prohibition of the sale of beer by the glass, and the regulation of its sale in the same manner as that which is now governing the sale of wines and spirits in the province.

The petition, which was presented to the legislature, had been under examination by a fact-finding committee as to its validity. The convention was informed that it is believed that the validity of the petition has been established, and the government is now urged to take action. This will probably mean the holding of a prohibition vote on the beer parlors and clubs in the near future. The petition was signed by 55,000 voters in the province.

"MAY I USE THE 'PHONE?"

Empress of Britain as Floating Pay Station.

Madeira got a new thrill recently when telephone communication was established between that pleasant island and London, England for the first time.

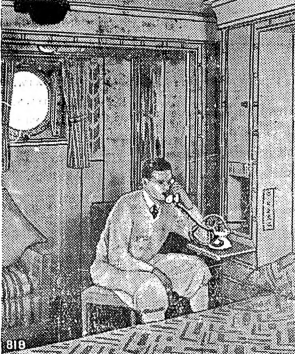

The occasion was the arrival of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain at Funchal on a cruise around the world. This magnificent new liner has the most powerful ship-to-shore telephone system in the world and Madirans were not slow to recognize a chance to make island history.

During her stay there, lying at anchor just beyond the famous Loo Rock, the Empress was host to many visitors. Amongst these were two who casually asked, "May I use the 'phone'?"

Just as casually the telephone operator of the ship called up London and put the callers through over 1,328 miles of water.

Reports from the Empress of Britain, now at Colombo, Ceylon, indicate that the wireless telephone is a popular feature of the ship. The longest distance yet reported is Haifa, Palestine, to Montreal. The liner works on a daily schedule with Canada, through the Canadian Marconi stations at Yarmouche and Drummondville, Quebec, and the Bell long distance board in Montreal.

Photos show: Empress of Britain at Madeira with Loo Rock in the foreground, and a typical bedroom fitted with telephone.

WEEKLY STOCK MARKET REPORT

The following is a weekly report from the Edmonton Stock Yards, as supplied to The Times for the week ending February 2nd.

Receipts: Cattle, 736; Calves, 80; Hogs, 4104; Sheep, 836.

Salesmen are finding difficulty in cleaning up their offerings. This is due to the fact that the quality of the offerings is not of the best. Buyers are showing an indifferent attitude and are bearish in their ideas. Sales so far this week indicate that cows remain fully steady to firm. Heifers about steady and steers of all classes are decidedly lower. Most of the offerings are showing a lower tendency with very few sales on steers. Following are the prices:

Good fed calves selling at $5.00 to $5.50, choice would bring more, mediums $4.25 to $4.75. Good butcher or steers are quiet at $4.50 to $4.75, mediums $4.00 to $4.25 and common to fair from $3.00 to $3.75. Good handyweight heifers $4.25 to $4.50, mediums $3.75 to $4.00, good heavies $3.25 to $3.50 and common to fair from $2.75 to $3.25. Bulk of the good cows are selling from $3.00 to $3.25, choice lightweights up to $3.50. Common to medium from $1.50 to $2.50. Canners and cutters 75c to $1.25. Bulls $2.00 to $2.25.

There is a fair demand for stockers, especially light kinds. The heifer and grade stockers are quiet. Buyers are selling generally at $3.75 to $4.00, choice would bring more. Plain kinds $3.00 to $3.50. Stocker cows $2.00 to $2.50.

Calves are moving readily at steady to firm prices. Choice light vealers at $7.00. Bulk of the good to choice kinds $5.50 to $6.50, common to medium from $4.00 to $5.00.

The hog market is unsettled and buyers are talking lower prices. To day, Tuesday, the long hauled Peace River sold at $3.35 for the bacon fed and watered. No locals sold. Selects bringing a premium of 50c per hundred and butchers discounted 50c per hundred. Cuts on the off-grade hogs remain unchanged and as follows: Heavies discounted 75c per hundred, extra heavies discounted 75c per hundred. No. 1 sows discounted 75c per hundred. No. 2 sows discounted $1.00 per hundred, roughs discounted $1.25 per hundred, stags discounted $2.00 per hundred.

Sheep and lambs are stronger. The general run of medium to good lambs selling at $4.75 to $5.25, and some as high as $5.50. Yearlings $3.50 to $4.00, the general run of ewes from $2.50 to $3.50, odd bunches are bringing as high as $3.85.

ROAD BUILDING IN THE PROVINCE

Hon. O. L. McPherson, provincial minister of public works, stated in an interview recently, when speaking of the history of road building in the province, that Alberta has a number of road-building difficulties not present in other provinces.

There is, he said, a world of material, but poor distribution, adding that in the "rapid development of the automobile at the same time as road development began in Alberta caused a piling up of difficulties."

There is a strong demand for rapid development, he said. Physical difficulties, such as being close to the foothills and many streams, also presented themselves. In Alberta there are more than 8000 bridges of more than 20 feet in length.

"The policy in Alberta for the past number of years," he continued, "has been one of endeavor to develop a systematic network of roads which would serve the future needs of this province. To envision that need and plan systematic development has been no small task."

He outlined the project of developing main highways, secondary roads, and then district or market roads. There are 2800 miles of main roads, and 400 miles of secondary roads being brought to the same standard as the main highways, and 1300 miles of district roads.

The province assumes full responsibility of construction and maintenance of main highways. Municipalities provide 50 per cent of the cost of secondary roads and the province assumes maintenance. Municipalities assume responsibility for district roads, and receive an annual grant from the province.

There are 1298 miles of gravelled main highways, 216 miles of gravelled secondary roads; 1896 miles of graded main highways; 372 miles of graded secondary roads; a total of 2268 miles of standard grade and 1512 miles of gravelled. Graded highways, he said, cost $2.25 per mile.

SPORT

LOCAL LADS GET PLACES IN THE CHAMPIONSHIPS

At the Provincial Indoor Speed Skating Championships of the Alberta Branch A.A.U. of C. held in Red Deer last night, K. Kirstein took third place in the intermediate mile event, closely following two Banff speed merchants at the tape. He placed fourth in the quarter-mile event. In the midjet class, Ross McElhargey finished third against more experienced speedsters from Banff. The Wetaskiwin relay team took third in the relay.

Mayor "Vardy" Somers was official starter, and Mr. J. S. Thomson, also of this city, was referee. B. W. Bellamy represented the Alberta Branch A.A.U. of C. Nearly one thousand people were in attendance.

WETASKIWIN JUVENILES 'DEFEAT CAMROSE 2-1'

Camrose, Feb. 1.—Walter Stump's Maple Leafs, Camrose juveniles, went down to defeat Saturday night against the Wetaskiwin juvenile aggregation by a score of 2-1. The small crowd of spectators were treated to a sparkling brand of hockey despite the 35 below weather. This is the second reverse the Leafs have received against the same team.

MCCARTHY COMPETING IN BIG OLYMPIC SHOW

Marian McCarthy, Alberta speed skater, who gave an exhibition here recently, writes from Lake Placid, N. Y., expressing thanks for financial assistance tendered by Wetaskiwin and Edmonton contributors, as well as the Alberta Branch A.A.U. of C. He was selected as a member of Canada's Olympic team and is competing in the 10,000 metre race in the Winter Olympic Games. "I am certainly pleased to know that Alberta is back of me," concludes McCarthy.

ALDERMEN ACCEPT CURLING CHALLENGE

At a previous meeting of the City Council, it was decided to challenge any Council Board in the Province of Alberta to a curling match, these in charge of the City's affairs being of the opinion that they can show the neighbours towns how to play the "roarin' game" as well as to look after administrative matters. This challenge has been accepted by the Council of Camrose, and on Tuesday evening Mayor Somers was authorized to arrange details in connection with the encounter. With such experienced curlers as Mayor Somers, and Ald. French, Ellis, Brown and Torsen, there is no doubt but that they will very creditably represent Wetaskiwin on every occasion.

Dull Pains Around Her Heart Shortness of Breath

Mrs. H. Warren, 107 Ferguson Ave., N. Hamilton, Ont., writes: "For some time I had pains around my heart. I was so short of breath I could hardly go up stairs, and could not get any sleep at night. A friend had told me about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I thought I would give them a trial. I am thankful I did for after taking three boxes I felt like a different person; can sleep soundly all night, and do all my own work now."

LIGHTS ON VEHICLES

A growing menace in some parts of the west is the practice of farmers driving along the highways at night without having lights on their horse-drawn vehicles.

Time and again accidents have occurred with fatal results. Sometimes the occupants of the wagon are killed or seriously injured. In other instances the driver and others in the motor car have suffered either fatal or severe hurts.

So serious has the condition become in Alberta that at its annual convention in December, the provincial motor association passed a resolution which called upon the legislature to pass an act which would require lights on all vehicles travelling the highways of the province at night.

Subsequently the provincial government of Alberta indicated that such a request could not be granted on the grounds that it would prove unworkable. Nevertheless, the Alberta Motor Association will present its resolution in order to show that a change for the better is essential in the interests of lives of citizens, whether motorists, farmers or others using the highways at nights.

Today the motor car is found operating on every kind of road that is at all passable. Either on the secondary or other municipal road systems machines are driven by drivers who are licensed.

Surely, for his own protection, and for the safety of others who utilize the highways, the driver of the horse-drawn vehicle should carry a light. He might be expected to do so even on his own volition, without having to be compelled by means of regulation.

The toll is already too great. With the facts known, it is surprising that any legislative body would hold back regulations to ensure greater security for citizens.—Ottawa Citizen.

That Terrible Pain in the Back Was Soon Gone

Mrs. H. Oickle, Caledonia, N.S., writes: "For several months I was bothered with my kidneys and thought I would never obtain relief. I received one of your Almanacs containing testimonials from women who had obtained relief from Doan's Kidney Pills, so I purchased a box and they did me so much good I got two more, and after using them found that terrible backache was soon gone."

WHICH STORES DO YOU LIKE BEST?

ISN'T IT TRUE that stores which invite your custom oftenest, and which give you most information about their offerings, are those to which you go by preference?

ISN'T IT TRUE that silent or dumb stores---stores which never tell you that your custom is wanted and valued, and which never send you information about their stocks and prices, are less favored by you than are stores which inform you by advertisements in this newspaper about themselves, their stocks, their prices?

ISN'T IT TRUE that you want, before you go shopping, information about goods of desire, which are obtainable locally, and about where they can be obtained?

THE FACT IS that advertisements are a form or kind of news, and careful buyers want the kind of news which sellers provide just as much as they want the news which it is the business of this newspaper to provide.

IT IS ADVANTAGEOUS to you, regarded as a purchaser, to be "advertisement conscious," meaning, to be observant of advertisements, and to be readers of them when seen in your local newspaper.

The reading of the advertisements appearing in this newspaper week by week not only will save you time, by telling you what and where to buy; but also they will direct you to "all alive" stores, providing goods which have been carefully selected and competitively priced.

Always remember this: the stores that serve you best are the stores that tell you most!

PNEUMONIA

Pneumonia is one of the most serious and most fatal of the acute diseases. In this country, it is responsible for over eight thousand deaths each year, a higher death-rate than that of tuberculosis.

The term pneumonia means inflammation of the lungs, and it is used to include several forms of the disease which have one thing in common, congestion and solidification of one part of the lung.

The onset of pneumonia is sudden, a sudden chill, lasting from fifteen to thirty minutes or more, then fever, difficulty in breathing, and a dry cough, with pain in the chest which may be severe. The doctor should be called, without delay, when such symptoms occur.

The disease occurs as the result of the activity of a germ. It appears that the germ is widespread, and that the chances of its causing disease are tremendously increased if, for one reason or another, the general fitness of the body has been lowered.

Pneumonia is more prevalent in the cities than in the country. This

One of the most important things you can do to make a teething baby comfortable is to see that little bowels do their work of carrying off waste matter promptly and regularly. For this nothing is better than Castoria, a pure vegetable preparation specially made for babies and children. Castoria acts so gently you can give it to young infants to relieve colic. Yet it is always effective, for older children, too. Remember, Castoria contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics—is absolutely harmless. When your baby is fretful with teething or a food upset, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Be sure you get genuine Castoria with the name:

Last Saturday, Sunday and Monday, were the coldest days experienced by Milletes for a number of years. Many cellars which had been considered frost proof, were found to be at the freezing point. Fortunately no wind was blowing during the cold spell.

Mrs. H. Brinker and Miss Jaques left on the noon bus Tuesday for Edmonton, where they will attend the annual Missionary Convention of the Edmonton Diocese. Mrs. Plant, who was also chosen as a delegate, will leave on Wednesday evening. All are expected home again Saturday afternoon or evening.

SUNNYBROOK SPECIALS

A. P. Mitchell, M.L.A. for this constituency, arrived at Sunnybrook last Wednesday evening with his automobile load of new goods. He has a large stock of new rubbers, overalls, boots and shoes, caps and clothing, a veritable God-send for some of the families in the halled-out area. Many children have been unable to attend the various schools in that district through no fault of their own or their parents. No crop—no cash, spells disaster for those blessed or "stricken" with large families. The goods are being carefully distributed by Mrs. J. Benham to only the needy families of the district. The thanks and appreciation of the entire community and entire municipality is extended to Mrs. Benham and Mr. Mitchell for their help and kindly sympathy towards the temporary stricken families.—Leduc Representative.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A birthday surprise party was held in the Community hall on Wednesday, January 27th, in honor of Mrs. H. Pogue. A large crowd was in attendance despite the severe weather. All reported having had a wonderful time, dancing being the chief entertainment. Mr. and Mrs. McDougall, Mrs. Easterbrook, A. Rognie and R. Easterbrook provided the music. A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. E. Pogue, Mrs. C. Theriault and Mrs. Easterbrook. While Mrs. Pogue blew out the many candles on the birthday cake, Mr. Easterbrook sang and the orchestra played "Many Happy Returns of the Day."

HILLSIDE

The U.F.W.A. are holding their February meeting at the home of Mrs. Hoskins on Thursday of this week.

Owing to the severe cold weather, the card party put on in the school house last Wednesday evening was poorly attended. The honours went to Mrs. Walter Miller and Ivan Swartz, while Mrs. Young and Chas. Robinson won the "booby."

The Juniors are busy practising for their Valentine social and by all reports it will be better than usual. T. H. Howes left Saturday for Vancouver to attend the Red Poll Breeders' Convention.

Francis Fry of Waskatenau, president of the Junior U.F.W.A., was a week-end visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Young.

W. Webb of Edmonton, is in the district this week looking after the hauling of his grain and other farm interests.

The Juniors are meeting at the home of their supervisors, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Dowdell, this month.

The postponed debate between Hillside and Verdun is scheduled to take place at Hillside school Saturday evening, Feb. 6th. The subject is "Resolved that Socialism offers the best solution of the present economic difficulties." Hillside will uphold the affirmative. Everybody invited.

The many friends of Mrs. Parlee, who has been a patient in the University Hospital, Edmonton, are very sorry to hear that she passed away between five and six o'clock on Monday evening. Mrs. Parlee, who had been a patient sufferer from a serious stomach affection for a long time, underwent an operation last autumn, which at first was thought to be a success, but later the trouble returned, and from that time on all hope was despaired of. Details of the funeral, which will take place in St. John's Anglican Church on Wednesday at 2 o'clock, will appear in next week's issue.

FATAL ACCIDENT

A fatal accident occurred at the Rowley-Van Volkenburg camp at Buck Lake a couple of weeks ago, when Lionel Kellis became entangled in one of the engines which he was repairing. One arm was very badly crushed, and in spite of first aid rendered by the local nurse and a hurried trip to the Wetaskiwin hospital, all hopes of saving his life were given up within a few days. Owing to the seriousness of the accident,

MILLET W.I.

A good time was had by all at the W.I. meeting at the home of Mrs. T. K. Rognie on Wednesday, Jan. 27th. A rare treat was missed by those who did not hear A. P. Mitchell, M.L.A., give his splendid address on "Wills." "The Dower Law," the present relief problems, etc. Everyone should make a will be the income large or small. It protects the be- loved ones at the time they need it most. On the principle of "A stitch in time saves nine." So many unforeseen circumstances or complications arise that a will provides for. You have all heard the story about your children and my children are quarrelling with our children, etc. Making a will seems a simple matter in health, but which if neglected might easily become serious. A delicious lunch was served.

Lionel Kellis, who was in his twenty-second year, was well known in Millet and the surrounding district, especially Hay Lakes, where deceased resided with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Kellis. The sympathy of the village and district is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Kellis and family in their hour of bereavement.

MILLET U.F.W.A.

The U.F.W.A. met at the home of Mrs. Jas. Carney on Jan. 25th. Roll call was answered, there being nine members and three visitors present. Program committee gave their report. Roll call for next month to be "Valentine Verse." Mrs. Woods to give a paper on "Co-operative Effort." Mrs. Grey to give demonstration on "How to Make Layer Cake." The convention report was given, also financial report, both being adopted. Dues handed in $2.50. The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Howard.

Mrs. Carney served a dainty lunch, assisted by Mrs. Higginson. Trade with the merchants who advertise in this paper.

ONE CONSOLATION

Recently a high executive in the Canadian automobile business was operated upon. The surgeon removed from him a number of gall stones.

When he came out of the anaesthetic the doctor told him what had happened and even revealed the number of stones that had been removed. Just as he went to sleep again, the automobile man turned over and said philosophically, "Well, it ought to get rid of the body rattle."

Contracted Bad Cold Left Awful Cough

Norway Pine Syrup

Mrs. Elmer Patterson, R.R. 2, Pictou, N.S. writes: "I contracted a bad cold that left me with an awful cough."

For nights I never put my head on a pillow, and was often afraid I would choke to death. I had tried all sorts of medicine and was in despair until a friend advised me to get Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I did, and I had only taken a few doses when I got some relief, and after taking three bottles my cough had entirely disappeared. Price 35c. a bottle; large family size 65c., at all drug and general stores; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

Here's a Little Story for Retailers

A YOUNG tailor complained bitterly about his poor business. "I make just as good clothes as _____'s do," he said, "and I sell them for less, yet _____'s get most of the business of this district."

This young tailor felt that men ought to find all about him—that they should search him out. He didn't see that it was his job to make known to all men the fact that he made good clothes and sold them at attractive prices. _____'s, on the other hand, advertised their business, and, of course, men went to them for their clothes.

It's the same all the world over—buyers go where they are invited to go. They buy, in largest numbers, from those who give them information about their business, service, goods, prices. This is exactly as it should be.

Why shouldn't the most aggressive seller get most business?

The world likes to buy from keen sellers—from retailers who pay them the compliment of telling them about what they have to sell and about their desire for their custom.

Dumb retailers may be fine men, may give good values, may be first-class store keepers, but the buying public prefers to go where advertisements in their newspapers direct them to go.

The wise retailer runs his business in line with what buyers want, because it is profitable to do so.

It costs a retailer far more NOT to advertise than to advertise.

BIBLE INSTITUTE NEWS

Our Bible School opened again on January 21st, this being the eighth year. We have the privilege of having Rev. E. A. Fernlund as our main teacher, and also Bro. Larson of Camrose. Sister A. Peterson is again giving her kind assistance in preparing the meals.
A blessed time was felt at the opening service on Sunday. We were glad to have Rev. Smalley of Edmonton with us. He gave a wonderful message in the afternoon on the 119th Psalm, verse 129. The testimonies were wonderful, we all felt God was near. Rev. Fernlund spoke in the evening on John 1. It was not so I would have told you.
In spite of the cold weather quite a number attended the services, some students came as far as 45 miles.
On Monday morning eleven students gathered around the table, when Rev. Fernlund gave an introductory opening of the study of the Old Testament Synthesis. Following this Rev. Larson also gave his class on "Personal Work." At 11 o'clock we all gathered for devotion, with the students taking charge. The remainder of the morning Rev. Fernlund had his class on the study of the Old Testament.
Rev. Carlson and Mr. Sorenson, of Killam, visited us on Monday and Tuesday. Rev. Carlson gave an interesting talk at the supper table Tuesday evening.
At present there are 18 students enrolled: Ellis and Eva Turner, Fernintosh; Ruth Swanson and Erica Stromberg, New Norway; Rose Mitchell and Mae Busch, Terlen; Emil Axene, Mabel Bengtson, Rosa Breshars, Hela Hamilton, Vera Hanson, Lucy Interwirth and Ethel Johnson, Wetaskiwin; Alma Harbor, Camrose; Esther Winder, Kingman; Kenneth Cairne, Millet; Roy Anderson, Angle; Orlo Nelson, Benalto.

CARD OF THANKS

TRAPPER KILLS EDGAR MILLEN AT RAT RIVER

Advancing to "get his man," Constable Edgar Milles of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and a resident of Edmonton, was shot and killed early on Saturday, by Albert Johnson, demented Rat River trapper at a lonely spot 30 miles up the river from its mouth, according to radio-telegram advice received on Sunday by Superintendent A. E. Adland, commanding "O" division, R.C.M.P.

Milles is the second victim of the unerring aim of the Arctic trapper, the first being Constable Alfred Weldon King, who was shot down by Johnson at the door of the latter's cabin while making an inspection tour at noon on Dec. 31, and who is making a gallant fight for recovery under the ministrations of Dr. C. U. Urquhart at Akivik.

Jerry: "What on earth is a rainbow present?"

Harry: "One that follows a storm."

ALBERTA WILL CUT HIGHWAYS PROGRAM FOR NEXT SEASON

How much or how little money is to be available for departmental spending during the coming fiscal year is a question giving the Alberta government considerable concern. The estimates are in course of preparation, and it is thought likely that they will come before the legislature somewhat earlier in the session than usual. That they will show the effects of a pretty drastic cutting-down is practically certain.

Votes for the several departments will be heavily cut and in some cases will represent severe retrenchments as compared with previous years. It is a foregone conclusion that provision will be made only for works and services that will be considered absolutely essential, and many otherwise desirable items will this year be omitted or reduced.

Highway construction will be one of the lines of work that will feel the cutting most severely. According to some of the private members, there may be no votes at all for new roads, and it is pointed out that Saskatchewan is following the same course, with not a dollar for highway construction program. Maintenance estimates will also be kept down to an irreducible minimum.

If this proves to be the case, such long desired undertakings as the Jasper Highway will be due for further postponement. It had been expected that on this year's program would be the reconstruction, for highway purposes, of all or part of the 80 miles of abandoned railway grade about to be acquired from the dominion government, the first and main feature of such reconstruction being the lowering of the grade and extension on the sides in order to give greater roadway width. But with the estimates trimmed to the vanishing point it is entirely problematical whether much, if any of this work will be done this year.

Premier Brownlee has been consulting with all his ministers in turn, with respect to their departmental needs, and the cabinet as a whole has been grappling with the question of the estimates for some time past. The impression among the members and in governmental circles generally is that things will be cut to the bone—or pretty near it.

J. J. MALONEY ROTTEN-EGGED IN ALBERTA TOWN

You can go to some of J. J. Maloney's lectures free, but it costs one dollar to throw rotten eggs at him. Yes, suh.

Maloney was attacked and became the centre of a barrage of eggs which had been better days, when giving a lecture at Chauvin, according to A.P.P. reports. The offence occurred on January 27.

The four men concerned were hailed before the local J. P. and were each fined $1 and costs on a charge of creating a disturbance—Edmonton Bulletin.

GRADED BEEF

A statement issued by the Dominion Live Stock Branch for 1931 shows a very substantial increase in sales of graded beef. In all Canada 6,348,558 lbs. branded red and 10,894,190 lbs. blue brand were sold, making a total of 17,242,748 lbs. This shows an increase of about 5,000,000 lbs. over 1930.

This report also shows that the largest consumption, 7,108,312 lbs. was in Ontario. Quebec was second and Manitoba third with a record of 2,592,142 lbs.

The beef of well finished, good type beef cattle only can be graded. For this quality beef there is a good demand, both in Canada and in the British markets.

Camrose, Feb. 2.—Wallace McKay was elected by acclamation to the public school board when nominations closed here Monday. J. A. Long, J. P. Adkins, E. A. Pearce and P. O. Poulson were nominated for three vacancies on the town council. The election will take place next Monday.
